There are no words to clearly express my heart felt condolences on your loss of your beloved husband Terry. I want you to know and always remember that you are not alone. When all the final farewells are done and the phone calls become less and no one is coming to visit, I'm here for you to talk with, visit with, get out of the house and go to dinner, etc. I'm only a phone call away for whatever, just as you supported me, I will be your support during and after this most difficult time in your life. Much Love and God's blessings always and forever, Your friend, your sister, Monica
